Q: what is the difference between setObject and addObject? So I was playing with MySQL and came upon this code snippet. NSString *sql = @"INSERT INTO `pokemon` (ID,name,hp,attack,defense,speed,type,ability,gender,level,species) VALUES (?,?,?,?,?,?,?,?,?)"; NSPredicate *pred = [NSPredicate predicateWithFormat:@"%@" == %@",@"1",@"2"]; [dbMFunctions setPredicate:[NSPredicate predicateWithFormat:@"HP >= %@ and name = %@ AND species = %@ and id = %@",@"3000",@"Spinzie",@"1",@"23"]]; sql = [NSString stringWithFormat:@"%@",sql]; [dbMFunctions addObject:[NSString stringWithFormat:@"%@",[@"@"],[pred description],@"1",@"2"]]; what is the difference between setObject and addObject, I can't think of any other way to represent it. A: setPredicate is a method to set the predicate for the SQL query, it will take in a NSPredicate and then build the SQL. addObject is used to build a SQL query It's a class that you can subclass and add custom methods if you want. When you call SQL with a string object, it will always be the ADD object. If you call SQL with a predicate object, it's going to look at the predicate object to see what it has and build the query based on that. Q: Union of two open intervals Suppose we have two ordered sets $(U_n)_{n \in \mathbb{N}}$ and $(V_n)_{n \in \mathbb{N}}$ that are respectively increasing and increasing with index $n \in \mathbb{N}$. Is it always possible to find two increasing intervals $(u_n)_{n \in \mathbb{N}}$, $(v_n)_{n \in \mathbb{N}}$ with $u_n \in U_n$ and $v_n \in V_n$ for every $n \in \mathbb{N}$

-In t-minus 4 days, the two battleships of the Imperial Japanese Navy are going to become two carriers for the Emperor of Japan. The name of the ships is Kongo and Nagara. My name is Joseph Bessette. I am here at Naval Base San Diego. As a child in Japan, I would watch the news of Japanese armed forces on CNN. The Japanese history and culture are amazing -I mean like everything. -Did you watch Captain Planet, and Gollum on that? -Yes, I saw all of them. -I think that was the one, where he tried to eat a planet? -I want to like watch this one, from Japan. -Oh yes. -But you're not allowed to watch this because you're a little kid. -Yeah. -Well, the thing that you may not have known about is that Japan has also always been the number one producer of steel. -Yeah, we're also number one in trolleys. -Oh my goodness. -We're number one in cars, trucks, vans, and trains. -They are. -That's right. -Because of everyone wanting to get from point A to point B the easiest, but the fastest. -So you can see all of this stuff in terms of Japanese culture. If you watch this, the story is about the Emperor Goshi becoming all powerful, the Emperor Hirohito. And then, Goshi dies. I believe it was because he made a bad decision. -What? -I believe that he made a bad decision based on his friends. -His friends? -Yes. I believe he wouldn't be able to forgive his enemies, so he dies. I believe the real reason is a referendum. I believe if he was elected emperor, he would be able to decide things, based on the people's views. -I think he didn't get the general message. -Right. -By saying one thing and doing another. -Right. -I believe I can watch this when I grow up. -You're gonna be as smart as he was. -He was like -He was smart. -It was
