Improved launch. Made some improvements to the logo.Q: How to load javascript in React component from external css file in React? I am trying to load the style sheet in my React component, but it is not working. How can i achieve this? I am using ES6 syntax in React version 15.4.2 index.html: index.js: import React from'react' import ReactDOM from'react-dom'

ReactDOM.render(Testing, document.getElementById('root')); style.css: #root{ background:red; }
The problem is, the style is not rendering. A: First of all, you need to make sure you're not using 'import' on the same line. This will make it improperly import the css file and have the style defined after the component definition. It needs to import after the component import. You also need to import ReactDOM. Rendering is just calling ReactDOM.render, and is not directly part of the style. You want ReactDOM.render(, document.getElementById('root')) If you have the CSS in a different file, you need to import it by doing a tag. If you want to see what your app looks like try this stackblitz: Then, to actually make the background change you'll have to use css style to apply the changes (Not necessarily the best,
