I want to sort this list of categories by all of their properties. This list can contain same objects, but each object have different properties. So far I come up with this method: `public IEnumerable SortByProperty(IEnumerable list, PropertyInfo propertyInfo) { if (null == list || null == propertyInfo) { yield return default(T); } // for every object in the list foreach (var item in list) { // get the object's property value var value = propertyInfo.GetValue(item); // check for null if (null == value) { yield return default(T); } // sort the object's properties in the order of the properties of the propertyInfo var sortableObj = SortByProperty(list, propertyInfo.PropertyType, value); // if that's not the last item of the list add it to it if (!list.LastOrDefault(x => x.GetType() == value.GetType())) { list.Add(new { value, sortableObj }); } yield return value; } }` It works fine, but I'm not sure if it can be made more efficient. For example, the following type of object will be put at the end of the list. Can it be avoided? Is there any other way to sort this list? `public class ThingsToDo { public`
