What's new in Deputy Dangle:

ow's Chatbot by aimidw No Listing Fewawall is the inspiration for Nef Out!, a Java based server to read NFTs and Batch NFTs added on the Blockchain. As the amount of transactions increase in an NFT economy, expect this NFT economy in particular to exceed $50 billion by 2030, which is expected to be within reach of the game economy, with the aid of their matching algorithms and library of AI powered smart contracts. Our device - this is the catalyst. It's not merely a NFT but it's actually a change in the world - that's what Nef Out! is about. Much like users of ToastyNFT, we test, experiment, improve and iterate our token on testnet and the real world. In the Nef Out! era we can inform our users of the latest and most relevant information, interact with the community and reserve high demand items securely, dynamically charge, advertise, set expiration dates and sell it all. For now, we run on a closed alpha devnet (devnet.nefac.io) live on the Bitcoin testnet and a fully transparent open source product. On top of this we also take a bit of scalability into consideration to make it easier to create tokens when using Soft Parity, although not as an absolute metric of priority. It's a work in progress - a true beta (which means it's still early days). But this work is important to Us as we would never ship a product that you don't want or have no use for. Consider it proof of concept. The Product We offer a full stack, tell you more below, in our Whitepaper The Methodology for Managing and Handling Private Keys This is key, for us and the sector as a whole. We've taken the added duty off the developers and devops, with the smart contract paired with the client app allowing one source of truth for key management and handover between the two. We suggest you read our whitepaper to decide for yourselves, whether it's for you or not. The platform is not yet the product, as we strive to not be like those companies that just sell an initial coin offering (ICO) product without any concrete idea of why it would be useful, money making strategy or plan of action.
