A: "winamp v5.53 serial keygen" is the name of the webpage you are looking for, but as far as I can see it is much, much older than the newer, "winamp 5.51 serial keygen".

Q: openldap init.d - how to start service I've started an openldap server with: `service openldap start` How do i start the service in the init.d script? If i try to start with: `/etc/init.d/openldap start` it says "command not found". Thanks

A: I'd assume you mean `/etc/init.d/openldap.conf`. In that case, For services that are configured to automatically start (and automatically stop), add a service initscript line to the start on and stop on sections. The service command is used to start a service, the `rc` is used to stop or restart a service. See the service man page for more information. In the `chkconfig` utility, services listed in the `start on` or `stop on` sections of the service configuration file will be started automatically at boot and when the service is stopped. You can use the command `chkconfig -a` to view and change the run levels of services. Refer: Service configuration

If you want to stop the service, run: `/etc/init.d/openldap stop`

Change `/etc/init.d/` to whatever file name you want. To start the service, run: `/etc/init.d/openldap start`

Q: GWT: Update UiBinder.ui with Autowired object I'm using GWT UiBinder with Autowired objects. The problem is that when Autowired objects change, the UiBinder.ui doesn't refresh, it only updates the previous version of the object. I noticed it only happens with classes that implement Callback. Example: public interface

    Callback { public void onRequestSuccess(ClientServiceRequest request,...); public void onRequestFailure(...); } public interface MyCallback extends Callback { // Some more methods that doesn't change the object } public interface Client
